

Hana-isho Katachi no Tenkai (Advanced Hana-isho) Hiraku-katachi

Hiraku-katachi is an advanced form of Katamukeru-katachi (Inclining Form) where the Shu-shi (Subject) and the Fuku-shi (Secondary) are positioned in a way that emphasizes the beauty of the radial form.

●Length of Yaku-eda (Principal Stems):

- Shu-shi: Free
- Fuku-shi: From two-thirds to equal the length of the Shu-shi
- Kyaku-shi (Object): One-third the length of the Shu-shi

●Shu-shi, Fuku-shi position:

The Shu-shi can extend towards the left or right. The Fuku-shi extends in the opposite direction. The same material can be used for both Shu-shi and Fuku-shi, or they can be different.

●Kyaku-shi position:

The Kyaku-shi is positioned in the center and slants 45 to 60 degrees forward. It can swing within 20 degrees to the left or the right from the center of the arrangement.

●Chukan-shi (Filler) position:

When the Chukan-shi is the same material as that used for the Shu-shi and Fuku-shi, it should be positioned within a 30-degree range of the Shu-shi and Fuku-shi.
